TEARDROP MINISTRY PRAYER

Blessed Monica, mother of St. Augustine, we give thanks to our Father in Heaven who looked with mercy upon your tears over your wayward son. His conversion and heroic sanctification were the fruit of your prayers.

Dear St. Monica we now ask you to pray with us for all those sons and daughters that have wandered away from God, and to add your prayers to those of all mothers who are worried over their children. Pray also for us that, following your example, we may, in the company of our children, one day enjoy the eternal vision of our Father in Heaven. Amen.

St. Monica pray for us.

Thoughts on this weeks readings by Fr. Matthew Siegman, Pastor, St Joseph's Church, Diocese of Kansas

Money has always been a struggle in my spiritual life. I'm not rich—my bank account proves it!—but I can be stingy. I tithe 10% to my parish, but I have it deducted automatically so I don't have to feel the pain of writing the check. Yet, every day, I encounter opportunities to help the poor. It's not that I lack the funds; it's that giving hurts. My problem isn't money—it's my hardness of heart, where the poor don't come first.

Today's Gospel (Luke 16:19-31) illustrates this through the story of a rich man and Lazarus, a poor man at his gate. The rich man, dressed in fine clothes and feasting daily, ignores Lazarus, who suffers in poverty. After death, Lazarus is comforted in Abraham's bosom, while the rich man faces torment. The issue isn't just wealth—it's the rich man's hardness of heart, rooted in his love of money, which blinds him to the poor.

Money can quickly lead to spiritual trouble. St. Paul warns in 1 Timothy 6:8-10, "If we have food and clothing, we shall be content with that. Those who want to be rich are falling into temptation... For the love of money is the root of all evils." Paul's point is clear: chasing wealth leads to harmful desires and spiritual ruin. The rich man didn't need to solve world hunger; he simply failed to help the man at his doorstep. His self-absorption—his hardness of heart—caused him to overlook Lazarus entirely.

What does a hardened heart look like? It's complacent and covetous, consumed with thoughts of what to buy or scrolling through social media obsessing over clothes, cars, or status symbols. It's a heart chasing frivolous pleasures—worrying about the next restaurant or party while ignoring others' suffering. A hardened heart has a blunted conscience, indifferent to the homeless on the street or the person with tattered shoes passed on the way to buy an expensive pair. As Pope Francis writes, such a heart is "caught up in its own interests... with no place for the poor. God's voice is no longer heard, the quiet joy of his love is no longer felt, and the desire to do good fades" (Evangelii Gaudium, 2).

The rich man's story reveals the progression of sin: love of money leads to vanity, which leads to pride. First, money, meant to be a tool, becomes an idol. We prioritize it over everything—working Sundays or taking jobs just to buy more things. This shifts to vanity, where life revolves around appearances. We buy fancy cars or name-brand clothes not for utility but to signal status. Even cultural traditions, like a quinceañera, can become about showing off wealth rather than gratitude to God. Finally, vanity breeds pride, where we act like gods, blind to others' needs. The rich man didn't refuse to help Lazarus—he didn't even see him.

This Gospel is meant to make us uncomfortable. We might think, "I'm not rich, so this doesn't apply to me." But Jesus told this story to unsettle us, to make us reflect on whether we, too, overlook the poor. Notably, the rich man's name is omitted, but we know Lazarus' name. In society, we often know the names of the wealthy—like celebrities—but not the poor neighbor down the street. Jesus flips this: in God's Kingdom, the poor matter most.

This story challenges us because we can't plead ignorance. Jesus warns in Matthew 25:45, "What you did not do for one of these least ones, you did not do for me." We're called to see and help the poor around us—not out of guilt, but because it's central to our faith. The rich man's failure wasn't just his wealth; it was his self-centeredness, his inability to let God's love move him to act.

Rather than a feel-good message, Jesus gives us a wake-up call. We must examine our hearts, confront our attachment to money, and ask: Do we see the poor? Do we care? The Gospel demands we soften our hearts, prioritize the least among us, and live not for ourselves but for God and others.

Reflection

By Rev. Leonard N. Peterson

Were you to ask me, I would call it "The Dream Machine." No, it is not a car; a sleep aide for insomniacs; or an "AI" genie. It is the lottery machine that stands in many a place of business to lure you into fantasy by offering a ticket that just may net you millions. I have watched the elderly approach one with an air of desperation about them; the well-dressed businessperson with a certain shrug of disdain; and the young with the wide-eyed confidence of a seasoned game player. I even know a bishop who says he will insert a dollar a month into the gadget just for fun.

In the context of a homily, one might expect me to condemn all those folks for being somehow morally deficient for gambling or taking an unnecessary chance with money that could have been given to charity. In fact, the state of Pennsylvania makes clear that lottery betters are benefiting senior citizens, giving the government funds for social programs.

The point in all this is to weigh the supposed good against the Gospel. Particularly with this weekend's Scriptures. A few verses ahead of the section in Paul's letter to Timothy that we read at Mass makes the all-important distinction about the place of money in our lives. It states that "it is the love of money that causes all our problems with it. Not money itself, which could be labeled "morally neutral." It is how we rank it in our list of valuables that makes all the difference.

The point for all of us is to acknowledge that there really is no such thing as "The Dream Machine," for the lottery or games of chance or anything else. The gospel tells us that Jesus is very clear about His attitude toward love of money, but He also assures us that God the Father has a certain dream about each of us. As His adopted children, we each have a mansion in the Father's kingdom custom built for us. No need to buy a ticket. That comes with Baptism. God's dream will all come true for all of us, unless by unrepented sin we toss our ticket away.

In the meantime, we have lesser, simpler truths which I believe Jesus would approve, to help us along regarding money, here is one of those: "Money will truly buy you a fine dog, but only love will make him wag his tail."

God love you and give you, His peace.
