TEARDROP MINISTRY PRAYER

Blessed Monica, mother of St. Augustine, we give thanks to our Father in Heaven who looked with mercy upon your tears over your wayward son. His conversion and heroic sanctification were the fruit of your prayers.

Dear St. Monica we now ask you to pray with us for all those sons and daughters that have wandered away from God, and to add your prayers to those of all mothers who are worried over their children. Pray also for us that, following your example, we may, in the company of our children, one day enjoy the eternal vision of our Father in Heaven. Amen. St. Monica pray for us.

PRAYER FOR POPE LEO XIV

O great St. Peregrine, you have been called "The Mighty," "The Wonder-Worker," because of the numerous miracles which you have obtained from God for those who have had recourse to you.

For so many years you bore in your own flesh this cancerous disease that destroys the very fiber of our being, and who had recourse to the source of all grace when the power of man could do no more. You were favored with the vision of Jesus coming down from His Cross to heal your affliction.

Ask of God and Our Lady, the cure of the sick whom we entrust to you. O St Peregrine, pray for our Holy Father, Pope Leo.

Aided in this way by your powerful intercession, we shall sing to God, now and for all eternity, a song of gratitude for His great goodness and mercy.

Holy Mary, Health of the Sick, gather our Holy Father under your mantle. Stay close to him in his suffering and comfort him as you comforted your Son. Bring our prayers to the Lord, that He may grant him healing and give him strength to keep shepherding the Church and serving the world. Amen.

Reflection

By Rev. Leonard N. Peterson

The greater the dislike of a person, the stronger the motivation to defeat him or at least thwart his forward progress. The collaboration of the Pharisees and Herodians, who represent opposite political views, reveals the extreme measures they take to eliminate Jesus.

Their chosen strategy was to trap Him. The Pharisees were Jewish nationalists opposed to Rome's occupation and rule over Palestine. The Herodians were supporters of Roman rule and sympathetic to the Herodian dynasty. If Jesus opposed the tax, the Herodians could charge Him with treason for instigating a tax revolt against Rome. If Jesus approved of it, the Pharisees would charge Him with being unfaithful to Judaism and its hopes of national independence.

Jesus beautifully evades the intended trap with a subtle and riddle-like response. His words have several implications. He plays on the word "likeness." Caesar's coins could be given back to him in taxes without religious compromise. He minted the coins with his own image, and they were therefore his property. But even Caesar, created in God's "image," has the duty of giving himself back to God.

Jesus' answer turns the trap back on them. He hints that taxation is the result of their own sins. Had Israel been giving God His due, they would not have been subjected to the oppression of Roman rule.

So, in the end, Our Lord affirms the rightness of fulfilling one's civil duties while emphasizing one's primary duty of serving God. Matthew compliments the Master in his conclusion to the whole incident: "When they heard it (the rendering to Caesar and to God), they marveled, and they left him and went away."

"They marveled." The question arises: Do we marvel at Jesus? Or have we slid into another kind of trap, namely that of complacency?

This Mission Sunday is a call to wake up to our obligation as followers of Jesus to spread the word about Him to a waiting world that doesn't even recognize its need of Him and His wisdom. We do it in many ways, the most common of which is our lifestyle.

Inherent in our duty is the obligation to help those valiant men and women who have given their lives for the effort through our prayerful and material support. There are millions still who have not heard the Jesus story. They need to marvel at what they hear. We reach out to them with optimism.

Once upon a time, a shoe salesman, upon finding out that in his new territory no one wore shoes, wrote his company and said, "Don't send any shoes, because no one here wears them." Another salesman in the same territory wrote the company and said, "Send all the shoes you've got; nobody here has any."

God love you and bless your mission.

29th Sunday in Ordinary Time

Peace be with you. Friends, our gospel for today contains one of Jesus' greatest one-liners, "then give to Caesar what is Caesar's and to God what is God's." This little rejoinder has inspired, as you know, an enormous amount of controversy over the centuries. And I'll explore what that might mean. But first, I want to get at another spiritual issue that this story suggests. It's obvious the Pharisees don't care much for Jesus. And they've been sort of coming after him, and he's been coming back at them. And as the story opens for today, they've concocted a very clever plot. They send their representatives to Jesus, along with the supporters of King Herod, the client king of Israel who had been sponsored by the Romans. Well, in the presence of these politicians, the Pharisees resolved to ask Jesus about the legitimacy of the census tax paid to the Roman emperor, it was a source of great controversy.

But more to it here, it seems to be a perfect trap. For if he says the tax is legitimate, it's okay, well, he'll alienate many of his followers who saw him as advocating the reign of God, advocating a different vision of things, not subservience to Rome. But if he says, no, the temple tax is not legitimate, then the Herodians will hear him and report back to their superiors that he is a dangerous revolutionary. Either way, it seems, they have him. It's clever. You're trying to catch someone, you set them up in a verbal trap, that's what they've done. But, Jesus evades the dilemma with his famous comeback. Render to Caesar the things that are Caesar's, and to God the things that are God's. Now, I think we're meant to see several things here.

First, we're meant to meditate upon the meanness of a lot of religious people. At the utmost, this gives rise to character assassination, cruel words meant to hurt, the way religious people can sometimes just be at each other's throats in a way that is very cruel.

Let me say it this way. If you're trying to serve the God of love, and that's the God that all claim we're trying to serve, you can't do it by hating people. Because in the very act of hating people, you're undermining the God you're claiming to proclaim.

Now, you can find someone to be mistaken. Nothing wrong with that. And you can point it out. That's perfectly valid. But you can't hate otherwise you're undermining the very message you're trying to propagate. See, this is the problem with the Pharisees. They've done this as an act of hatred. They're trying to destroy him but He sees through it.

Most questions have a yes or no definite answer. But more often than not, spiritual and theological questions invite a both—and answer, precisely because very often in the spiritual order things are just not so simple. One of those areas is the relation between the church and the state. So, Jesus says, render to Caesar the things that are Caesar's, and to God the things that are God's. Now, what he's making clear here at first is there is a legitimate distinction between the spiritual and the temporal. Governors and governments have their own legitimate sphere of influence and operation. That's one side of it. But now, think about this as I close. In the ultimate scheme of things, everything belongs to God, since God is the creator of all. Everything belongs to God, including Caesar.

So, what does that mean? It means that everything, including this legitimately independent political operation, is finally under the moral and spiritual aegis of God. That's why the same John Paul II, who said priests shouldn't be directly involved in government, also spoke with such eloquence and power against the communist regime in his homeland. That's something of the subtle, nuanced, complex answer to this question that Jesus gives, not an either-or, but a rather eloquent and fascinating both - and. Render to Caesar the things that are Caesar's, and to God the things that are God's.

And may God bless you all.
